ROAD CASE IS BEFORE JURY

HEARS PROCEEDINGS IN ARMSTRONG CONDEMNATION.

IS FIRST JURY CASE

Property Owners, East of Maryville, Claims Barrow Pit Injuries Because It Won't Let Water to Drain.

Controversy over how much damages, if any, should be paid for a triangular tract of land and a barrow pit, taken by the state highway department for right of way on the east road to Ravenwood, was being heard in circuit court today by a jury. It was the first jury case of this term of court.

Mrs. Louisa Armstrong, who lives with her son, Fred, six miles east of Maryville, was asking for $2,000 damages because of the condition caused by removing dirt from the barrow pit near her home and for land taken for the right-of-way.

It seems that besides the barrow pit, Mr. Armstrong, who works the farm, was forced to move over his fences for a distance of 150 rods, from five feet at the west end of the farm, to fifteen feet at the east end of the farm, in order to allow for the ground taken by the state for a right-of-way on Highway No. 18.

The contention of the state highway department, which is represented by George P. Wright, prosecuting attorney, and M. E. Ford, is that the benefits which will result from the improvements, will offset the loss of land.

Mr. Armstrong is represented by his brother, Judge Frank W. Armstrong, of Plattsburg, Mo., probate judge of Clinton county, and A. F. Harvey.

The jury drawn in the case:

J. F. Brown, George Westfall, A. B. Crater, Irvin Hanna, Ollie Breit, Bert New, Charles Lewis, John H. Luke, R. N. Bancroft, Fred Daniels, Claud Wohlford, L. E. Jasper.

Other proceedings of the court:

Application to pay taxes assessed against the Bank of Hopkins was allowed but the personal taxes levied were disallowed.

The note suit of the Tootle-Lacy National Bank against W. W. Jones, et al., and of the Real Estate Bank against the same defendants on a note, both were continued.

The Pickering Post Suspends Publication

Newspaper There Quits Because of Lack of Support—Effort to Obtain More Subscriptions Fails

The Pickering Post, recently edited by Harry G. Harris of Sheridan, who is now the proprietor of the Clearmont News is no more, according to O. G. Null of Pickering.

An effort was made early in the month to secure subscriptions for another six months, the first subscriptions having expired. The response was not sufficient to justify the continuation of the publication and so the paper died as did its predecessors for lack of support, he said.

It is understood that Editor Harris is to be married this week to Miss Eula Bond, one of Sheridan's most popular young women.

BIG CHANGE IN WEATHER

THERMOMETER TUMBLES TO 9 DEGREES ABOVE ZERO.

COLD IN NORTHWEST

Winds Reach Gale Proportions in Minnesota and in North Dakota Snow Delays Traffic.

Cold winds, which swept the Northwest, reached this vicinity last night, sending the thermometer down to 9 degrees above zero early this morning, J. R. Brink, official weather observer, reported this morning. It was a decided change in temperature as the mercury has been registering in the 50's the last two weeks.

Snow Piled High.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 20.—Cold weather continued in the Northwest today after strong winds which reached gale proportions sent the mercury tumbling from above freezing to sub-zero temperatures Thursday.

Although no deaths were reported early today, a number of persons were injured and considerable property damage resulted from the winds which struck with sudden fury Thursday.

In some parts of Minnesota and North Dakota snow was piled into drifts on roads, causing delay in automobile traffic.

Wind in Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—A cold wind swept into Chicago overnight, carried on a high wind which did considerable damage in the suburban districts. Temperatures dropped 36 degree in less than 24 hours.

The low of the night was 5 above zero from a high of 41 yesterday. Forecasts for today indicated still lower temperatures for the area.

Mrs. Thorp Runs Needle in Elbow

County Treasurer Has Broken Portion Removed From Arm At Hospital This Morning.

Mrs. Bess C. Thorp, county treasurer, today was of the opinion that placing needles in the wall may lead to serious results.

When called to the telephone Sunday at her home on North Walnut, she placed her left arm against the wall while holding the receiver.

Her elbow struck a needle in the wall. When the needle was pulled out of her arm a piece of the "eye" end broke off, remaining in her arm. This morning she was prevailed upon by her friends to go to the hospital where the piece of the needle, more than a quarter of an inch long, was removed. The needle had pierced her arm to a point near the bone.

Mrs. Mamie Clardy was in charge of the county treasurer's office today during Mrs. Thorp's absence.

To Masonic Meeting.

Jonathan Stark and A. L. Nash are attending a Masonic meeting in St. Joseph. They will be away for two days. The Grand Lecturer of the lodge is in charge of the meeting.

Byron Nunnelly, Nodaway County, sold on the St. Joseph market Wednesday 32 head of 1027 pound steers at $12.50 and 32 heifers, 633 pounds, at $10.65.

The Ravenwood Gazette this week carried a banner heading above their mast head: "Ravenwood, population 360—the biggest little town in the State of Missouri."

PARENTS TALK CITIZENSHIP

DUTIES AND OBLIGATIONS DISCUSSED LAST NIGHT.

TWO TEACHERS SPEAK

H. R. Dieterich, High School Principal and Leslie G. Somerville Tell of Schools' Citizenship Work.

The duties and obligations of a citizen, how this nation might be governed by the right type of officials, and what the public schools can do to make citizenship better for posterity, were all discussed last night at a meeting of the Washington Circle of the Parent-Teacher Association. It was men's night and there was a fair representation.

Herbert R. Dieterich, principal of the Maryville high school and Leslie G. Somerville, county superintendent of schools, gave twenty minute talks on the subject of, "Citizenship."

After Mr. Dieterich had defined citizenship as one who owes allegiance to the government of some nation and having a right to demand protection from that government, he continued his talk which was based upon six points in the pledge of National League of Women Voters, written by Maud Wood Park.

To be informed upon public questions is the first important duty of a citizen. Mr. Dieterich pointed out. "The average school child reads the comics in the newspapers and nothing but that. The school is training the child to become informed upon current questions of the day. What is in the headlines should be read. The latest developments in our national, state and city life are brought to us through the newspaper.

To vote according to conscience was the second point. "The right to vote is one of the most neglected privileges in America today," the school principal said. "According to the numbers who have the right, voting is on a low percentage. It is altogether too small.

Must Obey Law.

"The law of the land is supreme. There should be obedience to law although not in sympathy with all of its prohibitions," the speaker said as his third point of view.

Other phases of citizenship urged necessary was support to principles approved by the individual; respect for the rights of others, and to regard citizenship as a public trust.

As his closing remarks Mr. Dieterich said persons were gradually breaking away from the party and voting for the man upon his past record, and that party lines were being weakened but not abolished because of the necessity in carrying on a national campaign.

The Schools' Job.

What can the public schools do to make citizenship better? The question was answered by Mr. Somerville.

"I ask, why should this job be assigned to the public schools? But after thinking it over I see four good reasons," Mr. Somerville said. "The child is under the control of the school during important period of his life; the public is confident of the fundamental integrity and morality of the school body and teachers; schools are located in every city, village and hamlet; the schools are more directly under the control of the state and nation than any other institution. So why not place so much dependence for better citizenship from the public schools?

"We are constantly reading wild and scaring stories like Hickman and Hotelling. That is why the Parent-Teachers Association tries to find where citizenship belongs.

"After knowledge comes active participation in society. Education is necessary for membership into society. Society has been unsuccessful many times because a certain class of people fail to respect wholesome things that make up a good community.

Concrete Application Needed.

"Too much teaching of the past has been nothing more than a series of facts. What we need is concrete application. The teacher is becoming a guide, not a dictator," Mr. Somerville said.

"There is a need to arouse a desire in the student the why of citizenship and the why of voting. The student of this day and age should not leave school without that information.

Right Leg Crushed by a Falling Tree

M. A. Sewell of Skidmore, a brother of John H. Sewell of Maryville, had his right leg just below the knee amputated last evening at the St. Francis Hospital as a result of a painful injury received when a tree fell on him. A tree he was cutting down, fell against his right leg, below the knee, almost crushing it. It was in such a condition amputation was considered necessary.

Mr. Sewell and Elias Patterson were cutting wood in the timber on the edge of Skidmore at the time the accident occurred yesterday afternoon. His condition at noon was said to be satisfactory by the attending physician.

HICKMAN ILL, FATHER COMES

FEVER FOLLOWS OPERATION FOR INSANITY TEST.

ILLNESS NOT SERIOUS

Youthful Slyaer Denounces Father and Declares "I Won't See Him"—Mother Arrives Tomorrow.

Los Angeles, Jan. 20.—William Edward Hickman, youthful kidnaper-slayer, today turned against his father, Thomas Hickman, and bitterly denounced him.

"I won't see him," Hickman shouted when Frank Dewar, a jailer told him the father was on his way here from El Paso, Texas, to aid in his defense when he goes on trial next week for the murder of Marion Parker.

"He's the cause of all my troubles and I don't care what he wants to do now to help me. I won't see him when he gets here."

Dewar said Hickman told him he "often felt like killing him too," when speaking of his father.

Los Angeles, Jan. 20.—Edward Hickman, slayer of Marion Parker, developed a high fever today, following an operation to remove fluid from his spine in connection with tests being made to support his insanity defense.

Although Dr. Benjamin Blank, jail physician, said the illness was natural, Dr. Cecil Reynolds, famous alienist, declared yesterday that because of conditions under which the operation was performed it might have serious consequences.

Stiff, sore and scarcely able to move, the young killer was in great pain today as the result of the operation which was performed in his cell by a defense physician.

Dr. Blank said that Hickman was suffering from the usual sickness which follows a spinal puncture.

"The operation made in his cell, while he was sitting on a chair and it was necessarily rather rough," Dr. Blank said. "I personally will not do that sort of thing. A spinal puncture should be made in a hospital."

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 20.—Thomas Hickman, father of Edward Hickman, Los Angeles slayer who goes on trial next week, was en route to Los Angeles today to aid his son.

The father is expected to testify that he believes the son is afflicted with hereditary insanity, inherited from his mother, who once spent a term in an asylum.

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 20.—Foreshadowing a dramatic courtroom meeting between a husband and wife separated for the last 15 years, Thomas Hickman, father of William Edward Hickman, was to arrive here today for his son's murder trial next Wednesday.

The elder Hickman will be the first of the family to reach Los Angeles to aid in the defense of his son. At the time of Edward's arrest for the murder of Marion Parker the father said he ought to hang, but later decided to aid in his defense.

The mother, Mrs. Eva Hickman, and the slayer's sister, will arrive here tomorrow from Kansas City with Jerome Walsh, defense attorney, who is returning to Los Angeles with depositions taken in the Middle West.

Through these depositions Walsh hopes to prove his client insane and cannot be hanged for the murder.

The spinal puncture was made to determine whether Hickman was suffering with a disease which might bring on insanity.

Mrs. W. T. Miller of Chicago, is expected to arrive tonight to visit her son, J. O. Miller, and family.

HEFLIN FUSS STIRS SOUTH

SENATOR'S SPEECH PROVOKES EDITORIAL COMMENT.

ALA. PAPER FOR SMITH

Atlanta Constitution Urges Speech to Be Made in Georgia—Uneasy Peace In Democratic Senate Chambers.

To Continue Fight.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Senator Heflin, Alabama, told the Senate today he will renew his attack on the Roman Catholic "political machine" Monday.

"I intend that every fact relating to this controversy shall be made a part of the Congressional record so that every American who wants the truth about the Roman Catholic political machine will know where to find it," Heflin said.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 20.—In an editorial today the Atlanta Constitution urged Senator Robinson, Arkansas, "to accept the challenge of Senator Heflin to make in Arkansas the same speech he made on the floor of the Senate Wednesday in defense of religious toleration and the guarantees of the federal constitution."

"Make the speech in Alabama!

"Make it in Georgia!" the editorial said.

"We will then know if free speech is a dead letter and if the 'Bill of Rights,' the magna charta of American liberty, is to be disregarded by Alabama or any southern state."

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 20.—The Montgomery Advertiser, a newspaper in the home state of Senator Thomas J. Heflin, today declared itself in favor of Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, for president.

Captioned "For President, Alfred E. Smith, of New York," an editorial described itself as "an answer on the part of Alabama Democrats to the fanatical outburst of Senator Thomas J. Heflin in the United States Senate."

Referring to Smith's views on prohibition the editorial said he was "extremely moderate on that question and that his views were the same as those of every Democratic president from Jefferson to Wilson.

"In what respect," it asked "can it be shown, then, that this man's attitude on the mooted temperance question is fundamentally and historically un-Democratic?"

"And so he is a Roman Catholic. But the constitution of the United States prescribes the religious test for public office.

"At one time or another the Democratic party has been the means of investing a Roman Catholic with every official rank in public life, save only the presidency.

"Is the present not an ideal time to test the character and patriotism of a Roman Catholic president?"

Mobile Paper Takes Issue.

Mobile, Ala., Jan. 20.—Confining its editorial comment on the Heflin-Robinson tilt in the United States Senate in the past few days, to the Heflin statement that Robinson would be "tarred and feathered" should he repeat his Senate speech in Alabama, the Mobile Register says:

"Senator Heflin makes a poor return to the people of Alabama for honors they have heaped upon him when he declares on the floor of the Senate that Senator Robinson cannot enter this state and speak his mind freely without risking the danger and humiliation of 'tar and feathers.' It is not true. It slanders the state."

Declaring the people of Alabama have been very patient, the Register suggests that perhaps they now need a "cervantes to chronicle the lively cavortings of a chivalric knight in the August upper house of congress and a lallausee to etch the fetching lines of his pulchritude."

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent.

Washington, Jan. 20.—An uneasy peace settled over the Democratic half of the Senate chamber today after two days of interchange debate concerning Heflin's speeches attacking Catholics and Al Smith.

Everyone announced satisfaction at passing of the squall but some Democrats were a bit restless over the prospect that Heflin might make good his announced threat of continuing his religious orations from now until the Washington, Jan. 20. — Republicans are in disagreement over what should be the Democratic campaign slogan.

After Senator Moses, Republican, N. H., had facetiously suggested "Houston, Heflin and Harmony" in private conversation with his colleagues, Senator Willis, Republican, Ohio, himself a presidential candidate, moved an amendment to make the slogan read:

"Houston, Heflin—and Hell."

FARM BILL HOPE RISES

PASSAGE OF COMPROMISE PLAN SEEN IN HOUSE.

TO QUIT FEE PLAN

Belief Is Current That Farm Bureau and Other Organizations Will Support New Bill.

By THOMAS L. STOKES
United Press Staff Correspondent.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Passage by the House of a compromise farm relief bill which President Coolidge will sign, instead of the disputed McNary Haugen measure with its equalization fee, appears probable as a result of the last few days' developments.

It was predicted freely today that the House agriculture committee would report out a bill lacking the equalization fee to which the administration objects, and that a majority of McNary-Haugen bill supporters would vote for such a measure on the floor.

Maneuvered into the delicate position of standing for a measure that apparently has no chance of presidential approval, supporters of the McNary-Haugen bill are asking themselves whether it would not be better to work out a compromise that would mean some relief rather than get no legislation at all.

The revolt which started in a small way in the agriculture committee seemed today to be spreading, despite efforts of farm leaders to hold their ranks in line.

A probable compromise is along the lines of the Curtis-Crisp bill, which is understood to have administration support. This would set up financing corporations for each crop having a surplus, with power to buy up this surplus in the open market and hold it for better prices.

To prevent deliberate creation of surpluses, the measure prohibits operation of the machinery for a second year surplus if that surplus is caused by increased acreage. The machinery would continue functioning if the second surplus resulted from natural beneficial conditions. The Curtis-Crisp bill was defeated in the House committee last session by only one vote.

The Farm Bureau federation and other farm organizations favoring the McNary-Haugen bill will continue to support it, it is believed. Chester H. Gray, legislative representative of the Farm Bureau, has declined to give way, pointing out he is powerless in the face of the organization's mandate.

Cabinet Approves Kellogg French Note

Paris, Jan. 20.—The cabinet today approved the reply to Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg's latest note on the proposal for a mutual anti-war pact between France and the United States.

The reply was to be forwarded immediately to Washington.

It is understood that the French reply clearly limited France's ability to outlaw war to her undertakings as a member of the League of Nations, but expressed confidence that agreement on a United States-France anti-war pact would be possible on that basis.

It was pointed out that a mutual anti-war treaty among many nations might cause complications in view of their obligations as League members, and the note was understood to say that any pact France signed must harmonize fundamentally with League principles.

Insistence on this point is due to the fact that League members are pledged to make war with any nation that attacks another.

SMITH OUSTED FIGHT GOES ON

SENATE EXCLUDES MEMBER-ELECT FROM ILLINOIS.

TWO COURSE NOW OPEN

Smith May Seek Legal Redress Or Come Up For Re-Election.—Thompson-Small Supports Him.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—Governor Len Small of Illinois today declared his unqualified support of Senator-Elect Frank L. Smith, who was denied the right to take oath of office as a senator, and expressed "unqualified resentment" at the Senate's action in barring Smith.

Governor Small termed the Senate's action "unwarranted assumption of authority in infringing on the rights of a free people to elect a senator of their own choice."

"On behalf of the people of Illinois," he said, "I cannot and will not recognize the action of the United States Senate in declaring that a vacancy exists in the representation of Illinois in the United States Senate."

Small said the "response and commendation" of the people of Illinois to Smith's stand was "so general that even the barriers of partisanship have been swept away."

Governor Small's statement was taken to mean he would not appoint a successor to Smith and it seemed likely Illinois would be represented by only one senator indefinitely.

Small went into the history of Smith's case at length citing the attempts of the senator-elect to take the oath of office and the refusal of the Senate to permit it or to recognize his credentials.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Appeal to the United States Supreme Court or re-election in Illinois appeared the only course left open to Frank L. Smith today in his fight for admission to the Senate. His friends here said they did not know what his next move would be.

A resolution by Senator Reed, Dem., Mo., chairman of the primary investigating committee, declaring Smith's election tainted with fraud and corruption and his seat therefore vacant was adopted late yesterday by a senate vote of 61 to 23.

This overwhelming vote against Smith was held by some observers as forcasting possible similar action against Senator-Elect William Vare of Pennsylvania, whose case will be taken up next by the Reed investigating committee.

There is a difference between the two cases, since Vare's election was contested while Smith's was not, but both men have found the temper of the Senate against them and have been blamed for using large "slush funds."

Twenty-one Republicans, 39 Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite voted for the Reed resolution declaring vacant Senator-elect Frank Smith's seat, and 21 Republicans and two Democrats voted against it.

Smith to Run Again.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—Illinois Republicans—headed by Gov. Len Small, Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago and Senator-Elect Frank L. Smith, prepared today to begin their fight to send Smith to the congressional seat from which he was barred yesterday by the Senate.

Preliminaries to the battle were to be drawn up in the Republican ranks, with the first definite move when the Republican primaries are held. Smith declared he will become a candidate for the Republican nomination to the Senate at that time.

If successful in winning the nomination he will enter the general election in November, he said.

Thinks Voters Will Back Him.

"If the Senate had to bar me," Smith said sometime ago (he made the statement to the United Press on condition that it would not be released until after the Senate vote was taken) "They did it at the right time. There is a campaign coming on. I have a new set of tires for my car and I can start touring the state again without difficulty."

One Dead, 11 Burned in Reformatory Fire

Boonville, Mo., Jan. 20.—Le Van St. James, 16, inmate of the state reformatory hospital here, was believed burned to death in a fire which destroyed the structure early today.

Six patients were in the hospital and only five were removed by firemen who reported the flames prevented them from reaching the bedside of St. James, who was ill with pneumonia.

The hospital is a two-story structure. The blaze was believed to have started in the basement. It spread quickly to the first and second floors and soon the building was in ruins.

Inmates of the reformatory assisted firemen in keeping the blaze from spreading to other buildings.

Jefferson City, Mo., Jan. 20.—Rebuilding of the hospital at the Boonville state reformatory must await action of the next legislature according to word received here today by Cliff M. Harrison, superintendent of the reformatory.

The state penal board has no funds for that purpose and construction work on the new hospital will not be started until the legislature appropriates the money. A. H. Harrison, director of the penal board said.

Authorities here expressed doubt if an investigation will be conducted to determine responsibility for the fire which destroyed the structure.

Another shipment was immediately ordered by the physician.

Heflin Fuss Stirs the South

The make-shift imposed no restriction upon Heflin's future course. The resolution adopted by Democrats in caucus yesterday merely affirmed their confidence in the leadership of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, who took Heflin to task for his repeated anti-Catholic tirades.

There was considerable doubt as to whether the resolution was in reality a rebuke to Heflin. The Alabaman himself declared it was not. Senator Harris of Georgia and some other southern senators who voted for it agreed it was not. But Senator Bruce of Maryland and northern Democrats who also voted for it said they could not see how it could be construed as anything but a rebuke.

Generally the settlement was regarded merely as an "arrangement" to quell a party issue which was raised first in the disastrous Madison Square Garden convention of 1924. Its effect will be to permit Robinson to continue in the leadership with Heflin consenting, and Heflin may continue his attacks upon Smith at will.

Heflin reiterated his oft-repeated attacks on the floor late yesterday without objection by Democrats. Robinson was not in the chamber.

"It will be a sad day when the Democratic leadership undertakes to tie up with Tammany and Al Smith, the wet, the nullifier and a Roman Catholic," Heflin said. "I am going to carry on my fight here in one forum in which the Roman Catholic hierarchy cannot suppress free speech."

Heflin became irritated at heckling by Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, who insisted Heflin was attacking the prospective nominee of the Democratic party.

"Smith is not the next nominee," said Heflin, "and furthermore I don't have to listen to your barking."

Moses then addressed the audience in the Senate galleries and advised them to come there and hear Heflin every day instead of going to the movies, "because at times it's better and cheaper."

Turn Hair Dark With Sage Tea

By JEAN MACON

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product for only 75 cents, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

MRS. BASSETT ALWAYS TIRED

Now in Good Health by Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lansing, Michigan.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I needed it. When I first used it I was so bad I could hardly walk across the room without crying. I was tired all the time. I think my trouble was coming on me for six months before I realized it. I read of your wonderful medicine in the paper, and * * * my husband bought me a bottle, and after the first few doses I felt better, so kept on taking it until I was well and strong. I take it at times when I feel tired and it helps me. I will always have a good word for your medicine and tell anyone what good it has done me. I recommended it to my neighbor for her girl, who is sixteen years old, and it was just what she needed. She is feeling fine now, and goes to school every day."—Mrs. E. F. Bassett, 216 South Hayford Avenue, Lansing, Michigan.

Do not continue to feel all run-down and half sick when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is sold by druggists everywhere. It is a root and herb medicine and has been used by women for over fifty years.

MADE SMALL CIRCUS WITH JACK KNIFE

V. F. W. and Auxiliary to Sponsor Miniature Circus Which Took Four Years for Iowa Man to Make.

A miniature four ring circus, which took four years for Harry M. Carmichael of Red Oak, Ia., to make with a jackknife, rasp, file, pliers and tack hammer in his spare time, will be on exhibition here next week.

The mechanical circus, believed to be the world's only perfect miniature circus aggregation and equipment, will be shown at the armory of Battery C starting next Tuesday. It will be brought here by the V. F. W. and Women's Auxiliary for exhibition.

When but a youth thirty years ago, Carmichael attended a circus in a small Missouri town and since then he has been a "circus fan." His ambition to be a circus owner became so strong that he stayed awake nights pondering over his problem. A little more than four years ago he went to work, and with patience and hard labor during his spare time to make a miniature circus. He accomplished a marvelous example of whittling, a replica of a complete circus train with fifteen railroad cars and twenty-six circus wagons. He did this in two years and followed up his work with making tents to enclose a three ring performance in action, side show, dressing room, cook tent, mess tent, a tent stable for horses.

"The "big top" shows trapeze performers in midair, tight wire walker, white horses, polar bears balancing on a ladder, lions, elephants and gayly costumed women bareback riders. More than fifty performers make up the mechanical circus besides a number of acting animals. The machinery which operates the circus is hid beneath a 40-foot stand on which the entire circus rests.

From down the road comes the sound of bells. A lonely traveler takes up his burden and trudges along. DYED IN THE WOOL CHRISTIANS

Comment on the Uniform International Series for January 22, 1928. Read Mark 2 and 3.

Wm. Southern, Jr.

Blue has for ages been a symbol of consistency and fidelity. As a true blue dye never fades, so a man with fixed principles will not be easily drawn aside to depart from them. An old saying is "True Blue will never stain."

When we speak of one being True Blue or Dyed in the Wool, we mean that the individual is reliable and constant and one who may always be depended upon. When we speak of a Dyed in the Wool Democrat we mean one who has so thoroughly absorbed the Democratic principles that he is True Blue.

In England following the restoration, fixed principles were out of fashion. Nothing was more unpopular in the reign of Charles the Second than constancy and adherence to convictions of duty, so "True Blue" became a term of re even doubting seriously if there is any justification or any right existing for the death penalty.

In Jesus' time the Jews had embroidered on the Mosiac laws interpretations and rules which required much more space in the Talmud than the original laws. They were especially detailed about the observation of the Sabbath and even prescribed how far in fact one might travel on the Sabbath, how much cooking might be done and a hundred other details all of which had foundation in the Mosiar law, made for another time. The Mosiac law laid down a few principles which were "True Blue" and which will never fade. The Talmud build on this foundation a set of arbitrary rules which became ridiculous.

While we indict the Jews we have not far to go to discover that we have done exactly the some thing. We have embroidered upon the teachings of Jesus which we have in the New Testament our church needs and demand of Christians of our particular denomination that we agree to man-made creeds.

In Jesus' time the Pharisees were the orthodox and strict religionists and they were strict Sabbatarians. They wanted to get something on Jesus so they could get rid of him and discredit him and ruin his rapidly growing influence. About a year after He had been preaching

We today follow this idea when we refer to Blue laws. We mean puritanic laws, laws which we consider tyrannical and unjustified.

Many refer sneeringly to the "Blue Laws" of Connecticut, who have never read a single one of them and more refer to an ingenious fraud perpetrated by a man named Peter who wrote histories uesd in the schools and gave as laws a list of purest fabrication.

The first code of law passed by Connecticut Puritans was of course Blue. The people had fled to this country to escape tyranny and persecution and to worship God as they pleased. The laws they adopted were modeled on the old English law, but they were many times more liberal and merciful. What to us seem to be the ultimate of barbarism and fanaticism in the Connecticut "Blue Laws" were liberal and merciful compared with the laws of England in that day. As late as 1800 in England there were more than 200 crimes specified in the law as worthy of death. In Connecticut the first code made only twelve offenses deserving of the death penalty.

To us today the old Puritan laws, the Church and State were the same, are barbarous, cruel and awful. But to them they were mild. They compared with the laws of England whence they had fled to escape sure enough barbarity. We compare with 1928, when we are following and the crowds were following Him everywhere and his following was growing and multiplying over night, He attended a banquet given by a hated publican, Levi, and the banquet was on a fast day. The Pharisees accused him of eating with sinners and publicans but that was only a reproach, there was no law against that. There probably was a very good reason for fast days when the Mosiac laws were written, we would probably all be better off if we observed fast days now, but Jesus attempted to put

JESUS AND THE LAW.

Lesson Text.—Mark 2:18-22; 3:1-6 Read Mark 2:18-3-6; Ps. 119:33-40; 1:1-3; 19:7-14.

18. And John's disciples and the Pharisees were fasting and they come and say unto them. Why do John's disciples and the disciples of the Pharisees fast, but thy disciples fast not?

19. And Jesus said unto them, Can the sons of the bridechamber fast, while the bridegroom is with them? as long as they have the bridegroom with them, they cannot fast.

20. But the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then will they fast in that day.

21. No man seweth a piece of undressed cloth on an old garment; else that which should fill it up taketh from it, the new from the old, and a worse rent is made.

22. And no man putteth new wine into old wineskins; else the wine will burst the skins, and the wine perish, and the skins; but they put new wine into fresh wineskins.

1. And he entered again into the synagogue; and there was a man there who had his hand withered.

2. And they watched him, whether he would heal him on the sabbath day; that they might accuse him.

3. And he saith unto the man that had his hand withered, Stand forth.

4. And he said unto them, Is it lawful on the sabbath day to do good, or to do harm? to save a life, or to kill But they held their peace.

5. And when he had looked round about them with anger, being grieved at the hardening of their heart, he saith unto the man, Stretch forth thy hand. And he stretched it forth; and his hand was restored.

6. Straightway the Pharisees went out, and straightway with the Herodians took counsel against him, how they might destroy him.

Golden Text.—Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets; I am not come to destroy, but to fulfil.—Matt. 5-17.

(Text is from the American Standard Edition of the Revised Bible copyright, 1901, by Thomas Nelson & Sons, and used by permisison).

it on a common sense basis, to show how outgrown the old law was and how it was being abused.

Then came that which to the Pharisees was a really heinous crime. Jesus healed a sick man on the Sabbath. At the same time He declared the power to forgive sins. The Jews had made the Sabbath a nightmare to men. Jesus did not want to abolish the Sabbath but he declared that the Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath. His offense against the Jews was unforgivable. Six separate and distinct times did he do miracles of healing on the Sabbath. The Pharisees never forgave Him. We never quite forgive one who touches our sacred things with words of scorn.

If our religion is not progressive, it will not fit in with new times, new ideas and new discoveries, it begins to lose its hold. That is what is the matter with the young people of today. They are keeping step with a world which is rapidly advancing. They are flying in the clouds today where we a generation ago plodded along behind the ox cart. Open to them are the secrets of nature which were miracles to their grandfathers. When we try to fit them out with a set of religious clothing cut just exactly like ours were cut in the old days they will have none of it.

I am not afraid of the future of our young people which means the future of the race. They are fundamentally decent and idealistic and believe in God. But they are also educated and are thinkers and see before them wonlers come true which cannot be set aside.

We must teach as Jesus taught. We cannot put new wine in old bottles nor may we patch up old clothing with new cloth and make a neat and permanent job of it.

The church and the things the church teaches must keep pace with the world and the things the world teaches. The principles are not conflicting in the least. This is what that Jesus taught for which they crucified Him.

CHURCH UNION NOT POSSIBLE

ORGANIC REUNION ALSO UNWISE SAYS, MINISTER.

RELIGION IS "LIFE"

Dr. Karl Reiland, Liberal Episcopal Minister Calls Religious Unity Spiritual Not Sovereign Theocracy.

By PAUL W. WHITE.
United Press Staff Correspondent.

New York, Jan. 20.—"Organic reunion of the churches is not only unwise but impossible," the Rev. Dr. Karl Reiland, Liberal Episcopal minister told the Unitde Press today in commenting upon the conference at Malines in which unity of the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches was discussed.

"The only thing essential to christian unity," he went on, "is for the various branches of the church to recognize each other, their ministers, their worship and concede a mutual validity.

"This is too big a challenge for our time but it is the only one worth our notice."

Dr. Reiland, rector of St. George's and a leader in modernistic thought said he could not fail to respect the "sincerities responsible for the Malines conference, the Lausanne Pan-Christian conference of faith and order and the recent papal pronouncement. "Nevertheless," he added, "orthodox religion is nervous and distrustful about modernism; hence the activity of Anglo-Catholicism and fundamentalism in their quest for certainty, authority and unity."

"Religion is not 'once delivered' and therefore static, beyond the realm of inquiry, evolution and restatement," he continued. "Against the natural and spiritual phenomen of incessant change and infinite variety we find religion presenting the ideals of fixity, instead of variety, literalism instead of life, tradition instead of truth, reaction instead of reality and authority instead of liberty.

Religion Is Life.

"Religion is not a Bible, a church or a creed. It is a life. Its unity is a spiritual thing, not a sovereign theocracy with a throne at Rome or Canterbury or Washington. All attempts at unity are bound to fail because they are based upon unwarranted assumptions that are not true and cannot last.

"Notice the incidental claims put forward authoritatively and then meet them with a set of reasonable propositions such as these: Jesus did not found a church; he taught a way of life; the scriptures were not let down from Heaven but were written by man; God did not give the writers a literary hypodermic, making their efforts automatic; they wrote as men and reveal all the frailties which we commonly regard as incidental to man-made objects."

Ministry Not Devine Evolution.

Of [redacted] Reiland said it was not a divine evolution but a human evolution, not from the apostles but chiefly from Paul, who was never ordained but set aside by laymen.

"The ministry was first congregational, then presbyterian; then Catholic or Anglican," he added. "The Anglicans are not wise in whetting an ecclesiastical appetite to devour the other protestant bodies.

"The only unity worth having is spiritual and it may come by way of getting together for some thrilling enterprise like the abolition of war, where we can forget our differenees and aim at a more selfrespecting destiny."

Lakin to Continue on Topic of Evangelism

"The Old Camp Ground" Subject of Morning Sermon.—"High Cost of Living" Night Topic.

College H. S. Boys Hear Talks Today

George H. Colbert and Dr. H. J. Green Speak; Ten Commandments Are Discussed.

The boys of the high school department of the State Teachers College were addressed in an assembly this morning by George H. Colbert and Dr. H. J. Green, members of the College faculty. Mr. Colbert used the 'Ten Commandments' as his theme. Dr. Green spoke on the subject, "Cleanliness Denotes Quality."

In taking up his discussion of the 'Ten Commandments' Mr. Colbert demonstrated the application of each commandment to present day life. He emphasized the point that some folks do have other Gods besides the One we are commanded to worship. While some worship money, some beauty, still others pleasure, the speaker showed how life based on God is far more successful. Honor to parents was included in the discussion.

He pointed out the proper use of time, habits of thrift and honesty in all dealings. In discussing the commandment, 'Thou shalt not lie,' he embarked upon a toast given at a banquet. The speaker at the banquet was addressing his audience on the subject of 'White Lies.' The speaker said: "When we say at the table, 'please pass the cream,' it probably is a white lie because it has usually been skimmed on both sides'."

"A clean body is the foundation of a moral health as well as intellectual health," Dr. Green told the high school boys. He said cleanliness denotes quality in life from all observations he had made and that cleanliness is essential in the school room and church as on the football field.

"We breathe not only with our lungs but our skin. A good hot bath, with soap and towel, helps in an intellectual way, as well as physical.

He gave instances pro and con of football stars. A star on a Princeton team refused to keep trim according to Coach Roper's rules of health and as a consequence the University last three games in the critical part of the season. Seeing the rules of health as a vital necessity the star abided by them and the remainder of the season the team was successful.

Dr. Green told another incident of a 120-pound football captain who kept himself fit at all times. Injury to an elbow at an important part of the season was a blow to his team. But they found the team needed him in the play. Because of his physical qualities he was able to play and they beat the opposing team 25 to 0.

"Work for higher things, through a sound constitution, and qualify for service and right living," was the final appeal.

As Cosgrave came up the bay aboard the Municipal Boat Macon, the sirenes of Harbor craft and the boom of a 19 gun salute from Governor's Island prepared him for the cheers of thousands waiting him at the battery, along lower Broadway and at the City Hall.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON : : : : : By Harlowe R. Hoyt and Walter Scott

JESUS AND THE LAW

When his disciples plucked corn on the Sabbath, Pharisees complained to Jesus. For the law forbade all work until sunset on that day. "The Sabbath was made for man," Jesus replied, "Not man for the Sabbath.
As Jesus entered the synagogue, he found a man with a withered hand, waiting to be healed. Hoping to accuse him, the Pharisees watched to see whether he would heal on the Holy day.
"Is it lawful to do good or harm on the Sabbath day?" Jesus asked. None answered him. "Stretch forth thy hand!" he commanded the cripple. The man did so and his withered hand became whole.
When this miracle had been accomplished, the Pharisees went out and took counsel with the Herodians. Though of opposite political faith, both parties were determined to destroy Jesus for they feared his works.

THE STORY THUS FAR

When JEFF HARRISON, gambler, is killed in a poker game in Caldwell, Kan., his 13-year-old son, TONY, is taken to the Bar K ranch in the Indian territory by JOE CRAIG, who appoints himself the boy's guardian.

There Tony is welcomed by TITUS MOORE, owner of the Bar K brand, and his little daughter, RITA. Another who has befriended Tony is GORDON W. LILLIE, who later becomes known as PAWNEE BILL when he teaches school at the Indian reservation in Pawnee.

RITA MOORE, his little tomboy daughter.

When Tony is 15, Rita and her mother depart for Virginia and the boy learns for the first time how much he cares for the little red-haired, arrogant miss. Titus Moore, owner of a thoroughbred mare, is challenged to a horse race in Caldwell by CLYDE JONES, owner of a remarkable stallion.

Tony rides Fancy, Moore's mare, and wins with herr. Under the terms of the bet, Jones loses $5000 and his horse, but Moore refuses to accept the horse.

CHAPTER 25

Titus Moore shrugged in a manner that indicated Clyde Jones was free to give his horse to whom he chose.

But Tony, when he was informed of how matters rested, shot a quick, understanding look at his employer and refused. Into his eyes had leaped at first a gleam of surprised gladness; to be the owner of that magnificient beast, Black Diamond, would be wonderful beyond all imagination. Looking at Colonel Moore, though, he felt somehow that he would be robbing the man of a magnanimous gesture.

"I couldn't think of it," he told the owner of the beaten stallion, and Clyde Jones, half angrily, smote his fist against his open palm.

"Why, this is ridiculous," he argued. "It was a gentleman's bet, and I'm trying to pay it like a gentleman, and you won't let me."

"It ain't any use trying to argue with the colonel," Craig told him with a grin. "I reckon I ought to know; I've worked for him long enough."

Titus Moore nodded. "He's right; I'm sort of stubborn when I make up my mind. Listen here, Mr. Jones, don't you think it would be nice to present Tony here with a colt. It seems to me your horse and mine both have qualities that ought to be passed on to another generation."

"They ought to be bred; that's certain," Jones agreed. "In fact, that's what I had in mind when I offered to buy your mare. Since you're so insistent on giving Black Diamond back to me, I'll agree on the condition that their first born goes to Tony," and he thrust forward his hand to seal the bargain.

The colonel generously suggested that Craig and the other hands run off and amuse themselves. "You've got a lot of money in your pockets and it's burning holes. It won't do me any good to tell you to cache it in a bank; I'd be wasting my breath. Before nightfall it'll all be gone, between liquor and roulette. Tony, did you bet anything on the race?"

Tony admitted he had. "A hundred dollars, Colonel."

"We'll I suppose I ought to tell you that you're too young to gamble, but I won't. I want you to walk over to the bank with me now. I'm putting one thousand of the five I won in trust for you. It'll be yours, with interest, when you're 21."

And to the boy's protestations he raised a silencing hand. "Don't argue, Tony; you earned it."

In a letter that night to Mrs. Moore he wrote, among other things: "And Tony was the perfect gentleman. He could have had the stallion, just by nodding his head, but he was too good a sport. There's good blood in him, Katherine, and you're going to have to let me have my way about him."

Back at the ranch once more, Tony found the weeks slipping by without event. Summer passed and Rita had not come, and he found himself saying it was better that she had not. To see her once more would only revive the thing he was trying to kill; he would be unable to conceal from her the truth and he would be laughed to scorn.

Late in October he heard again from Pawnee Bill. The Cody-Carver show had closed its successful season, and at Omaha Buffalo Bill and Dr. Carver had divided the material, Carver taking his half south for a winter tour.

"And I'm going with him," Pawnee Bill wrote, "taking the Indians along with me. If we have a good winter I'll be right back in the show business in late spring."

"And I'll be with him," Tony told himself.

But the Carver show was doomed. It played to disastrous business throughout the south, and at New Orleans Pawnee Bill and his Indians left it and returned to Pawnee. Tony Harrison heard from him again shortly afterward, this time from Wellington. He expressed himself as somewhat disappointed with his first experience, but not at all pessimistic.

"It's bound to pay if it's run right. At present I've got my cattle on my mind again. They're wintering right now at Medicine Lodge, and I'll most likely spend the summer with them and sell in the fall, providing I'm not tempted to go with Buffalo Bill next spring."

He did not appear at the Bar K ranch all winter. Early in the spring of 1884 he wrote that the likelihood of spending that season on tour was small. "Things don't look just right and I've got an investment, in these cattle of mine, that needs watching."

That spring saw a renewal of the activity of David Payne and his Boomers. The murmur against the cattlemen had been growing louder; in the border towns of Kansas there were many who lifted their voices in public protest against the interests that were keeping the territory closed to homeseekers.

In May Payne took a party of fifty colonists and tried to establish a settlement in Oklahoma just south of the Cimarron river. They were run out by United States cavalrymen.

"Why?" many of the Boomers asked. "Why are we being run out?"

"Orders," they were told briefly.

"Orders," asked Payne, "to run all white people out of the territory? What do you do when you pass a cattle ranch close your eyes?"

There was no answer.

Again in June Payne tried it, this time with increased numbers. South of Hunnewell they were met again by cavalrymen and escorted once more across the border.

Reports of these activities drifted to the Bar K ranch and almost invariably put Titus Moore in a bad humor. For him there was only one side to the argument; he was paying his money to the Cherokee Nation for the use of grazing land, and what right did Payne have in thinking the cattlemen were wrong? Because the Indians were willing to lease their lands did that mean that every white man who could race in and grab one was entitled to a quarter section for nothing?

"The Strip will be the last to be opened, if it comes at all," Joe Craig ventured. "Payne's aiming first at that part they're calling Oklahoma, down in the center of the territory. There isn't an Indian in it." He gazed off into the distance and pursed his lips in a soundless whistle. "Boy, I'll sure be sorry when she goes."

"It won't," Titus Moore snapped. "What do you suppose we've got that lobby for down in Washington?"

"As I understand it," Tony Harrison put in, "Payne says the Strip isn't owned by the Cherokees at all. He contends they only own the right to hunt on it and pass over it."

"Yes, but they were promised that right just as long as the rain should fall and the flowers grow. That's what it says in the treaty. If you should ask me, I'd say it was a pretty long time, although during that dry spell we had last summer I thought I could see the end in sight." Titus Moore laughed.

Then they got word of a tragedy. Not long after Payne's attempt to settle south of Hunnewell, he died. Some said he died, others thought differently. He expired suddenly in Wellington while at breakfast. Many of his friends believed he had been poisoned by those who opposed the opening of Oklahoma.

Ugly rumors flew and the Oklahoma Boomers were filled with resentment. William L. Couch, Payne's first lieutenant, took up the torch dropped by the fallen leader and endeavored to hold it high. Public attention suddenly was focused on the opening of the territory, and many felt that Payne's death would hasten it by several years. Border newspapers reminded their readers in editorials that Moses led the Israelites to the edge of Canaan and died just before they went in to possess it.

"So Payne died, with just a glimpse of the Promised Land, after leading his followers through a wilderness of struggle."

When word of Payne's death reached the ranch Titus Moore shook his head. "I'm downright sorry. I had nothing against the man; I just felt he was misguided in his enthusiasm. He was a good man."

"Do you think," Tony asked Craig, "that the Boomers will disorganize?"

"Why? Because Payne's dead? Boy, from the cattlemen's standpoint that's the worst thing that could have happened. This talk about being poisoned by some enemies is foolishness. Payne's a—a—"

"A martyr," Titus Moore supplied.

"That's what I'm trying to say—a martyr. The Boomers'll be more active than ever."

Tony had counted strongly on traveling that summer with Pawnee Bill in a show, but his disappointment was abated with the arrival of Fancy's colt.

It was an awkward, gangling, long-legged thing, black save for a white blaze on his head; but Titus Moore, who knew horses, was emphatic in his pronouncement that Fancy had foaled a colt fully worthy of its mother and sire.

"Of course," he explained, "there's no way of telling with absolute certainty yet; we'll have to be patient and watch how he develops. But I'm pretty certain that we have here one of those fortunate accidents in breeding that every horse fancier hopes to stumble across before he dies."

They had named his Cherokee.

"In two years," the colonel predicted, "you'll be sitting on the fastest thing on four legs, or I miss my guess."

It was a new and lasting joy to Tony Harrison. Almost he was able to forget his misery of the summer before. Rita was but a memory, although it hurt him sometimes even now to think of her. But he found it quite easy not to.

(To Be Continued.)

The name of Tom Benton comes forward and Tony Harrison puts himself on record. In the next chapter.

Farmers at Pickering Ploughing This Month

Some Ploughing Oat Stubble, Others Breaking Sod.—Is An unusual Occurance for January.

By O. G. Null

PICKERING—Some of the farmers in this vicinity have been ploughing during the past week which is quite an unusual occurance for the first half of January.

Some of them were ploughing oat stubble, which was not ploughed last fall, while others were breaking blue grass sod, preparatory to putting it to corn next season.

These grounds seemed to be free of frost and worked well. The indications were last night that the ground will be frozen too hard to plough this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. McMillen left Thursday morning for Kansas City, where they will join an excursion party on a trip to Texas. The excursion is being conducted by the M. K. & T. railway and will include most of the principal cities of Texas in its itinerary.

After visiting Austin, Fort Worth and Houston, Mr. and Mrs. McMillen expect to go to El Paso and from there to the most southern extremity of Texas, where they will look after some property interests of Mrs. McMillen. They expect to be gone two weeks on the trip.

Mrs. H. M. Lincoln returned last week from a two weeks' visit at the homes of her sons, Oa and Orlo Lincoln, both of whom, with their families, live in Creston, Ia.

Miss Ruby Judd of Mozingo Valley neighborhood returned home Tuesday from a three months' visit with relatives and former neighbors at Malvern, Missouri Valley and Emerson, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hood of Long Branch vicinity entertained at dinner last Sunday in honor of Mrs. Hood's brother, W. A. Whiteman and his wife of Bellingham, Wash., who are visiting here.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Florea and Mrs. J. H. Alexander of Maryville, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Killam and children, Pauline, Herbert and Evelyn, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Florea and son, Noble, of Mozingo Valley, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gonser of Harmony neighbord, Dr. P. E. Hood of Parnell, Will Florea and Roland Hantze, Mozingo Valley and the honor guests.

The Everett Swaney closing out sale on Wednesday drew a large crowd and the offering brought satisfactory prices. The drizzling rain, which set in about noon caused a considerable portion of the crowd to leave before the sale was over and probably detracted somewhat from the sum total of the sale.

Elmer Hornbuckle has purchased the truck of Robert Gumm and expects to do general trucking with it.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Early have moved here and are living in the Wood Zencker property.

Misses Bernice Snelling, Harriet Wright, Nelle Castle, Mable Williams, Maxine Miller and William Elliott, Harry Hann, Albert Sipes, Wayne Hayzlett, Clarence Leeper, jr., Jean Kaufman and Lavelle Hilsabeck were some of the Graham people who attended the basketball game at the S. Washingtin Senator Tells Senate It Is "One of Foulest And Blackest Crimes."

Dill demanded immediate withdrawal of the Marines, saying they were being used to protect speculative American investments in a country known to have an unstable government.

Tenn. Puts Hull's Hat in the Ring

Washington, Jan. 20.—Rep. Cordell, Hull, Tennessee, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, was endorsed as a presidential candidate today by the Tennessee delegation in Congress.

Hull is "the most suitable and logical man for the Democratic nomination," a statement by the delegation said.

"He was one of the principal authors of the Wilson economic policies and otherwise played a large part in formulating and enacting the marvelous constructive program during that administration, both in peace and war."

As chairman of the national committee, the statement said, Hull "directed an unparalleled campaign of education on all the vital issues."

Final Grain Review.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—Danger to Southwest winter wheat from extreme cold, sent wheat prices sharply higher at today's session on the Chicago board of trade. Corn was weak of itself, but followed the upturn in wheat. Oats went fractionally higher in sympathy. Late in the day wheat was around 3¼c higher; corn ¼ to 5-8c higher and oats was around ¼ to 3-8c up.

Temperatures went below zero in the night and the Southwest winter wheat fields were reported in danger of serious damage due to lack of snow coverage. The news sent prices here into an early bulge despite lower foreign cables. There was some buying here credited to eastern export houses and eastern mills took American Northwest wheat freely. The new Argentine and Australian crops are beginning to clear for European ports and foreign prices were consequently depressed. Receipts here totaled 20 cars and cash wheat was unchanged.

The bears had the advantage of the news in corn, but they were not sufficiently sure of themselves to exert any strong downward pressure. The cold wave is generally construed as bearish to corn, as marketing will be faciliated by frozen roads. This news prompted an early dip, but prices gained rapidly, on reflected strength from wheat. Receipts were comparatively small at 78 cars. The cash market was ½c lower. Oats followed wheat upward in a dull market. Receipts were 56 cars and cash unchanged.

Corn's mid-session rally proved to be only temporary, and toward the close there was a rush of selling that lost most of the morning's gains. Oats held most of its gains and wheat closed sharply higher. Final figures, wheat up 1⅛c to 1⅜c; corn, ½c lower to ⅛c up and oats, ¼c to ½c higher; provisions closed higher.

Provisions worked slightly higher.

BEARCATS IN FIRST M. I. A. A. GAME TONIGHT

Warrensburg to Open Conference Season on Local Floor in a Series of Two Games.

Tonight the Bearcats do battle for the first time with a team in the M. I. A. A. Conference. The Warrensburg Mules, conference leaders and victor in two conference jousts, and the Maryville Bearcats, victors in two non-conference mix-ups, will appear at the Teachers College gymnasium at 8 o'clock. John Bunn, University of Kansas, will referee the contest tonight and tomorrow on the Bearcat court.

Maryville, co-holder of the championship of last year, is eager to claim undisputed the M. I. A. A. honor. Indications this year are that the winner will be a victor of some prowess. Thus far this season, Kirksville, Springfield and Warrensburg have been setting a fast pace in all games played. The Maryvillians, with Burks, Ungles and Hedges, comprising the offensive trio, and a pair of crack guards, has displayed some very commendable basketball in the two games fought so far, but they have not had an opportunity to test their ability against other conference outfits.

26 EDITORS WANT HOOVER

SCRIPPS-HOWARD PAPERS PLEDGE THEIR SUPPORT.

SMITH IS NEXT CHOICE

Chain Newspaper Editors Prefer Tammany Democrat to a Republican Like "Dawes and Lowden.

French Lick, Ind., Jan. 20.—Editors of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, numbering 26 papers published in all parts of the country, today voted to support Herbert Hoover for the presidency.

Governor Al Smith of New York, however, was their choice in case "a Republican like Dawes and Lowden" were nominated by the Republicans instead of Hoover.

The Scripps-Howard editors have been in conference here this week. They passed a resolution saying:

"After mature consideration we are of the unanimous opinion that Herbert Hoover is the best qualified active candidate for the president put forward in either party by reason of his character, training, experience and cosmopolitan outlook on national and international problems. We endorse him as our choice for nomination and election.

"It is our informed opinion, coming as we do from all sections of the country, that Herbert Hoover among Republicans everywhere is the preference of the rank and file. It is and will be our purpose to expose the selfish character of certain favorite sons and other insincere movements calculated to defeat the will of the people and hinder Hoover's nomination.

"Having regard for the character and attainments of Governor Alfred E. Smith and his record of achievement as it accords with the liberal and constructive editorial policies of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, we consider him a desirable candidate for the Democratic nomination, as between Hoover and Smith, we will support Hoover. As between a Republican like Dawes and Lowden and a Democrat like Smith, we will support the Democrat."

Stifling summer heat cannot penetrate walls and roofs; winter's chilling blasts are safely kept outside. And because Celotexing prevents the escape of valuable furnace heat, it reduces fuel bills about one-third.

This saving soon repays the small cost of Celotexing; makes the comforts of Celotex an actual economy, not an extra expense.

Even if you are not planning to build, get complete information about Celotex. Lining the attic and basement of your present home with broad, strong Celotex boards gives many of the benefits of complete Celotexing and is well worthwhile if you expect to stay where you are for even one more year. FRIDAY

OWN·YOUR·HOME·DAY

YOU CAN BE YOUR OWN LANDLORD

The desire to own a permanent dwelling place is one of the strongest human instincts. Few things contribute so much to a man's self respect and feeling of importance in his community as being his own landlord. His house is visible proof of his industry, thrift and ability to provide the good things of life for those he loves. Owning his own house gives a man a certain standing with his neighbors, improves his credit, encourages civic pride, and stands as an investment on which he can realize in actual necessity, by mortgaging it.

Buying or building a house is not an extravagance, even for people in very modest circumstances. On the contrary, it is good business to do so. It is one of the best ways in the world to save money, because it supplies a real incentive.

Many people who have never looked into the matter would be surprised to find how little money is required to put them on the road to home ownership. The initial outlay required is not large. If you have a little money put by, we can show you how the buying of a home can be financed so that what you have formerly been paying out in rent, with nothing to show for it, can go toward completing the purchase of a house.
